

LBNL HOTLINE

800-403-4744

(Systemwide Non-emergency Hotline for the University of California)

Employees have the right — and the responsibility — to identify and report improper governmental activities and environment, health and safety concerns without fear of reprisal. Employees are encouraged to discuss concerns with their immediate supervisor, any level of management, or their human resources representative. In cases where employees or others are unable to raise issues to management, are uncomfortable doing so, or wish to report retaliation, alternative mechanisms for reporting are available. In addition to the hotline number, the following internal and external resources are available:
