

Emmy Award winning Life Theatre Services presents an exhilarating, educational and fun alternative to online sexual harassment training.

Life Theatre uses professional actors to dramatize real life scenarios that illustrate both overt and subtle forms of sexual harassment. Once these short plays are performed, a facilitator stops the action and invites the UC audience to talk directly to the characters. Participants can ask questions, give advice, agree or disagree with any of the actions presented. The actors then respond as their characters, and a lively discussion takes place between the audience and the performers.

Life Theatre presented similar programs to UC faculty and staff members throughout the state in 2007 and is now back by popular demand. Why sit at a computer for two hours when you can take part in an engaging program that will stimulate and challenge your perceptions of “sexual harassment”? You’ll get your AB 1825 credit, while participating in an interactive theatrical program that mixes serious education and learning with humor, entertainment and spirited discussion. The time will fly by and you’ll leave with a deeper understanding of the issues and how they affect individuals, both personally and professionally.

Visit Life Theatre’s website www.lifetheatre.com for more information on the company and click on the scroll reading, “click here for scenes from Life Theatre” to watch clips of their Emmy Award winning television specials. Seats are limited, so sign up soon.